

First Class contents

- 1: Honeymoon In Havana
by Charlie Boodman
- 3: The Sunken City
by E.G. Burrows
- 4: War Reporters
by Alan Catlin
- 6: Bird Watching At Burger King
by Doug Draime
- 7: Molly's Place
by Doug Draime
- 8: Salton Sea Army
by Gary Every
- 9: Wisconsin Jacket
by Gary Every
- 10: Flowers In Cuenca
by Thomas Feeny
- 11: My Execution
by Michael Frey
- 12: Soon The Revolution
by Ed Galing
- 13: Iraq
by Ed Galing
- 14: Grief And Joy
by Ed Galing
- 15: Outside The Barbershop
by Jonathan Greenhouse
- 16: Shadow Of The Divine
by Jonathan Greenhouse
- 17: Kentucky Fried Forgiveness
by Andrew Meyer
- 18: Mice Are Famous
by Andrew Meyer
- 19: Ghosts And Boys And Jesus Too
by W. Tyler Paterson
- 31: Another Change In The Scene
by David Pointer
- 32: Building Up Dr. Feelgood
by David Pointer
- 33: they were white and i....
by spiel
- 34: Eyes
by Douglas Weston
- 35: Letter To David About Loving Alike
by Fredrick Zydek
- 36: Letter To Wallace About The Nature Of Religion
by Fredrick Zydek

Cover Art and Photograph, as well as any internal photography by Christopher M

First Class #29 leans toward the absurd in many instances, though also lays down a fair share of pungent realism. There is a blur in our culture wherein the absurd tends to swirl reality about, clouding our ability to perceive just what is what, when “they” tell us what is what. Speaking of “they”, there is also a piece from spiel that spins on the “they” axis... a puzzling aspect of our collective vernacular. The “they” may have much to do with how the “we” collect information and make decisions. Altruism, or the death of altruism, rears its head in this issue as well. So, as usual, more reading to crack open the skull and expose the mind to further thought-provoking ideas – just what Four-Sep is all about, eh?

Again, I am pleased that your eyes are on these pages.

- Christopher M.

- christopherm@four-sep.com